"ILL-CONSIDERED COMPETITION."

"Haphazard Underwriting" Deplored.

UNION INSURANCE MEETING.

Another Good Year Reported.

A warning note as to "ill-considered competition" in the insurance field was sounded by the Chairman of the Union Insurance Society of Canton, Limited (the Hon. Mr. J. Owen Hughes) at the annual meeting of the company this morning. He added that there had been a lot of haphazard underwriting the world over, which was to be deplored, but happily, there were signs that underwriters in general were getting together to put rates on a sounder basis.

COMPANY'S STRONG POSITION.

Cargo rates, said the Chairman, which had dropped appreciably in recent years, remained at about the same level as the previous year, and it was pleasing to note that the Hull market was on a better basis.

The company's position, as shown by the report, was a strong one, a marked feature being the healthy state of the investments both at home and abroad, all of which were paying well. The Society had over one million pounds in investments in America, and it was gratifying to be able to state that the decline on the New York Stock Exchange had not affected them in any way.

The fall in silver values had had a little effect on the Society's holdings, but it was pointed out that the great majority of its funds were on a sterling basis.

Marine business had kept up well during the year, although the Company were involved in the loss of the Hamburg-America liner Hochst, and also to some degree in the disastrous fire on the Europa.

The year had been a bad one for fire business, but general business continued to improve.

In conclusion, the Chairman paid a tribute to the unfailing endeavours of the General Manager and staff during the year.

The Chairman, in proposing the adoption of the Report and Accounts, said:

Gentlemen: The Report and Accounts were issued on May 6, and you will therefore have had the necessary time to examine the figures which appear in the Balance Sheet. I propose therefore to follow the usual practice and take them as well as the Auditors' Report as read.

The Working Accounts for the year 1929, after paying a Bonus to Contributors of $18,334-10s-10d. and an Interim Dividend of 24/- per share, amounting to $162,000, shows a Balance of $129,826-10s-9d. available for distribution, and your Directors recommend that this Balance be dealt with as follows:

A Final Dividend of 16/- per share on 185,000 shares to be paid to Shareholders absorbing $108,000 and that the Balance remaining be carried forward to Underwriting Suspense Account to close the Account for the year 1929.

The Balance of the Working Account for the year 1929 is $440,790-1s-4d. and the Board recommends an Interim Dividend of 24/- per share be paid to Shareholders, absorbing $162,000, and that a Bonus of 20 per cent. be paid to Contributors of business on Bonus terms, absorbing about $20,000, and that the remainder be carried forward.

Cargo Rates Down. The business of Marine Insurance for the year 1929 appears to have been transacted on very much the same lines as for the past few years. Cargo rates have in some instances declined, although I believe for the most part they have remained very much upon the same level as the preceding year. The Hull Market has been placed on a somewhat sounder basis, and we read that increases have been secured on fleets where the record has not been satisfactory.

Haphazard Underwriting. I think we can safely say that underwriters generally are more prone to watch carefully the statistics of their business, and this is all for the good. I think there is a little doubt that during the last few years there has been a good deal of what might be termed haphazard underwriting. I understand that underwriters are inclined to be more careful and to put rates on a sounder basis. A warning note as to "ill-considered competition" in the insurance field was sounded by the Chairman of the Union Insurance Society of Canton, Limited (the Hon. Mr. J. Owen Hughes) at the annual meeting of the company this morning. He added that there had been a lot of haphazard underwriting the world over, which was to be deplored, but happily, there were signs that underwriters in general were getting together to put rates on a sounder basis.

78-YEAR OLD MAN CHARGED.

POSSESSION OF OPIUM AND AMMUNITION.

SUSUAL LAME EXCUSE.

A Chinese, 78 years of age, was this morning charged at the District Officer's Court before Mr. J. S. MacLaren for the possession of 716 lbs of illicit opium and 150 Mauser rifle magazines. Mr. F. X. d'Almada appeared for the defence, and entered a plea of "Not Guilty."

Evidence given by a Chinese detective was to the effect that on May 23, a raid was made on an unnumbered man at Tin Wan. There were two beds in the shed, and underneath one of these, he found a kerosene tin containing the opium and a gunny bag in which the magazines were kept. Defendant was away at the time, and he waited until 5.30 p.m. when he returned.

Insp. Dorling spoke to preferring the charges against the defendant at the Water Police Station, when the latter answered that he did not know that the contraband was in his shed. He said that someone had left them there.

In evidence defendant said that a few days before his arrest, somebody came to his door. It was late at night and he could not see what they had dumped here, but he heard them asking him to take care of the parcels. Next morning, he took the parcels and put them under his bed. He never looked inside to see what they contained.

His Worship convicted. In mitigation, Mr. d'Almada pleaded that since the accused was found to be in possession of the contraband, he had no other recourse than to plead guilty to possession, but it must be admitted that the accused had had no guilty knowledge.

His Worship imposed a fine of $8,000 on the charge of possession of opium, or, in default, six months' imprisonment. On the other count, defendant was fined $1,000 or six months' imprisonment, the sentences to run consecutively.

Three Other Cases. Revenue Officer Grimmiti prosecuted in three opium cases before Mr. R. E. Lindsell this morning. Two of the accused were arrested at Causeway Bay, behaving in a suspicious manner on the water front.

When searched, prepared opium was found strapped to the legs of both men. One had 98 taels and the other 80 taels.

Both admitted possession, but would not say where the drug had come from.

The first man was fined $10,000 and the other $9,000, with the alternative of six months' hard labour in each case.

The other man was arrested coming off the s.s. Taisan. He had 18 taels of raw opium.

Mr. Lindsell imposed a fine of $500 or two months' hard labour.

Last year when the rate of exchange was 2/0.

Accounts Affected. The amount standing to the credit of Exchange and Investment Fluctuation Account is affected also, this amounting in the present Balance Sheet to $268,369-4s-1d. as against $212,819-1s-9d. shown in the Balance Sheet for the period ended December 31, 1928. As I have already indicated, the closing Demand rate on London of the Hong Kong & Shanghai Banking Corporation on December 31, 1928, was 2/0, whilst on December 31, 1929 it was 1/7 1/2. The difference between these two rates shows a depreciation in the Sterling value of 15.588 per cent.

The 1929 Working Account has been adjusted to the exchange ruling on December 31, 1929, and in consequence the balance of the 1929 Working Account at the end of the second year after payment of an Interim Dividend and Bonus amounting to $1,475,334-10s-10d. is $14,188-6s-8d. less than the 1927 Working Account at the same period.

This difference, I may say, is more than accounted for by exchange, and had exchange remained at not less than 2/0, the balance would have shown some appreciation.

Interest And Dividend. You will observe that our interest in the 1928 Working Account

JAPAN IN GOOD FORM

Disagreement Over "Soccer" Match.

CHINA WINS VOLLEY BALL.

Tokyo, Yesterday.

At the Olympic games to-day, Japan clinched for the baseball title, defeating the Chinese in a wild, ragged contest by 17 runs to 10. In swimming Japan secured a further two firsts in the 100 yards back stroke, and 50 yards free style. In the men's volleyball event China beat Japan by 21 points to 18 and 21 to 19, making China and the Philippines tie in the match for the title, which will be played off to-morrow.

In the women's volleyball event Japan beat the Philippines by 21 to nil and 21 to nil.

In soccer Japan sprang a surprise and tied with China by 3 goals to 3. The Chinese did most of the attacking but their shooting was erratic. At half-time the score was one all. Japan led by 2 goals to 2 within three minutes, when Wong Shui-wa equalised. The Chinese wanted to play extra time to settle the championship but the Japanese refused. Subsequently, the sides failing to agree, the F.E.A.F. "Soccer" Committee declared the championship a tie without further play.

In tennis Japan won the men's championship without the loss of a match. Nuno beat Lum, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4. Instead of the scheduled Sato and Khoo singles match, which Khoo defaulted, an exhibition doubles was played, when Sato and Kawachi beat Lum and Khoo, 4-6, 7-5, 6-1, 6-2.

In the women's tennis singles Kobayashi beat Gloria Lee, 6-0, 6-2, and beat Lucy Lee, 6-0, 6-1. Gloria Lee beat I. Imura (Japan) 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, giving Japan a victory of three matches to two. In basketball Japan beat the Philippines by 38 points to 29. The championship tie will be played off to-morrow.—Reuter.

PHILIPPINES' "WAR."

Moros Flee to the Hills After Bombardment.

ROUND-UP COMMENCED.

Manila, Yesterday. Following an all night long bombardment of the Moro fortress, using Stokes mortars, gas, machine gun, and rifle fire, the constabulary forces entered the Sultan's Citadel's stronghold, which they found empty. The Moro defenders having fled to the hills through a cunningly devised underground passage. Patrols were hurriedly organised, and started immediately for a round-up of the outlaws, who are believed to be making for other fortified camps.—Reuter.

INDIA'S FERMENT

Nagpur, Yesterday. The Government of India have decided to send a large force of British troops to the Central Provinces to suppress the tribal disturbances.

WAR ZONE SHIFTS TO HUNAN.

REBELS ADOPT TACTICS OF CANTON FORCES.

INVASION EXPECTED.

Canton, Yesterday.

The Central Government has formally appointed General Chan Chai-tong as Commander-in-Chief of the Land, Air, and Naval forces of the Kwangtung, Kwangsi, Hunan and Kiangsi provinces. General Chan is expected to assume his new post on June 1.

According to an official wire despatched from Hangchow in Hunan, the Kwangsi insurgents under Pei Huang-hai have arrived at Hangshaho near Hangchow; those under Yang Teng-fai are still at Taohow, while the Hunan mutineers under Tang Seng-ming have advanced as far as Yung-ming. In order to shorten the line of military operations, the Hunan loyal troops have withdrawn to Yen-pun-shi, 20 miles from Chiyang, and will, if necessary, further retire to Hengchow, which will then be strongly defended, thereby adopting the former tactics of the Cantonese forces when facing last year the invasion of the Ironsides and Kwangsi-ites. The wire expresses the confidence of the Hunan loyal Generals and their ability to round up the rebels as soon as the troops of the 6th and 8th Route Army follow them up.

Rebels in Hunan.

Another report from Nanking says that the Ironside-Kwangsi rebels have penetrated into Hunan in two directions—one marching eastward to Ningyung, and the other toward North-east to Tungan and Chiyang. Besides the 19th Division of the 4th Route Army, stationed at Hengchow, being despatched to intercept them, all the Hunan loyal troops, who recently invaded Kwangsi, have been transferred back to guard Hengchow and Lingling. Skirmishes between the vanguards of the rebels and the Hunan troops are reported to have taken place last week between Hengchow and Ningyung, but no further fighting has since been reported.

It will be recalled that Tang Seng-ming and Tang Chih-ming, both brothers of Tang Seng-chi, mutinied in Hunan some time ago and escaped to Kwangsi to join the Ironside-Kwangsi insurgents. Tang Seng-ming is now invading Hunan again. By appointing Tang Seng-chi as C.I.C. of the 6th Regional Army of the allied forces, Yen Hsi-shan hopes that Tang may be in position to collect the remnants under Tang Seng-ming.

The Kiangsi troops under Chang Fei-chen have been assembled on the Kiangsi-Hunan border in anticipation of a possible invasion by the Ironside-Kwangsi rebels. A circular telegram is received from General Ho Chien, chairman of Hunan, stating inter alia that, due to the activities of the Communists under Ho Lung and the outlaws under Pang and Wang, arising in Hunan, the Hunan troops were compelled to withdraw from Kwangsi for their suppression. Taking advantage of the disturbed situation in Hunan the mutineers, Tang Seng-ming and Tang Chih-ming have induced the invasion of the Ironsides and Kwangsi-ites. General Ho has despatched troops to several directions for the elimination of the invaders, Communists and bandits.

Airmen Busy.

Canton, Yesterday. Word has been received from Colonel Tang Yue-ming, who led six planes on the 28th to Shukuan and who has been flying to Hunan for reconnaissance daily, to the effect that the Ironside-Kwangsi rebels are still at Lingling, Hunan, and are unlikely to make a further advance, probably due to the opposition of the Hunan troops.

Cantonese Reinforcements.

The 90th and 91st Divisions under Tsoi Ting-kai and Chiang Kwong-nel now at Shukuan, will proceed to Panchow, 40 miles to the south border of Hunan, via Pingliang and Lochang, as soon as the 88th Division under Li Yang-king arrive at Shukuan to form the general reserve.

The troops of the 88th Division are expected to arrive at Shukuan to form the general reserve.

It is persistently reported that Chiang Kai-shek was wounded in the arm, and has retired to rest at Hanchow. Hitherto there is no confirmation or denial of this from Nanking.

Two thousand Shanai troops are reported to have crossed the Yellow River at Tientsin, and others at other points east and west of the railway. Han Fu-chu has maintained to Chouven to the invaders.—Reuter.

PRAYA BLAZE.

Fine Work by Naval Ordnance Department.

HECTIC HALF-HOUR.

A spectacular fire, which at one time looked as if it might have serious and even terrible results, broke out this morning on the new Reclamation in Wanchai, almost opposite to the Royal Naval Canteen.

The P.W.D. have a large number of tarred pipes stacked here, and suddenly, according to an eye-witness, they were seen to be afire. Within a few minutes a huge sheet of flame enveloped the pipes, and clouds of thick black smoke rolled across the road, causing considerable alarm to property-owners on the old Praya.

Ordnance Men's Work.

The wind carried the flames in the direction of the Naval Ordnance Department, but the staff, with most commendable promptness, had already "stood to" with hoses, and they proceeded to play upon the yard and the boundary wall, afterward tackling the remaining stack of pipes that seemed likely to be involved.

Eye-witnesses state that the fire started at 10.55 a.m., and by 11 o'clock, only five minutes afterward, the Naval Ordnance staff were busy fighting the flames. The fire appliance from Wanchai arrived about 11.10, and one from Central at 11.20, by which time the sharp outbreak was well under control.

Engine "Runs Amok."

One appliance which left Central had a mishap when it failed to make the turn up to Queen's Road from the Supreme Court with the result that it crashed into the standard in the middle of the road, and continued on to the footpath outside the Hong Kong Cricket Club ground. Fortunately nobody was injured, although the derelict appliance naturally excited considerable attention from passers-by.

A Free Treat!

In the meantime, hundreds of Chinese had gathered at the scene of the blaze, workmen on adjacent buildings "knock-off" en masse in order to enjoy the spectacle.

The terrific heat could be felt fully one hundred yards away, and at one time it appeared advisable to get every one out of the Canteen. The work of the Ordnance Department, however, had its effect after the first few minutes, and the fire was got in hand within a comparatively short time.

Exactly how the fire began is not known, but it provided residents and onlookers in the district with a decided thrill, coupled with not a little apprehension.

Five-witnesses are loud in their praise of the work done by the Ordnance Department, which they say undoubtedly prevented far more serious consequences.

The blaze was finally extinguished about 11.25.

SERIOUS CHARGES.

Today, Ho Yung appeared before Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy on charges of assaulting a Chinese married woman with intent to do her grievous bodily harm, or to maim, disfigure, or disable her.

Detective Sergeant Meadows stated that he would like the case to be taken as a committal one, and asked for a date to be fixed for the hearing.

His Worship intimated that his first free afternoon was June 17, which he accordingly fixed, as well as June 19, at 2.15 p.m. also.

Field Headquarters.

day, where a Field Headquarters will be established, with Chief of Staff, Wong Yam-wan appointed as director.—Canton News Agency.

Peking, Yesterday. All the vernacular papers publish many details of the Nanjing reverse on the Lungai railway, agreeing that the allies attacked the Nationalist troops on the front, flank and at the rear.

It is persistently reported that Chiang Kai-shek was wounded in the arm, and has retired to rest at Hanchow. Hitherto there is no confirmation or denial of this from Nanking.

Two thousand Shanai troops are reported to have crossed the Yellow River at Tientsin, and others at other points east and west of the railway. Han Fu-chu has maintained to Chouven to the invaders.—Reuter.

BOBBY JONES WINS AGAIN.

AN ALL-AMERICAN MATCH.

FIDDIAN'S BIG CHANCE!

St. Andrews, Yesterday. The first four players in the last eight in the British Amateur Golf Championship were decided this afternoon. Voigt beat Hope 2 up, although he was one down at the turn.

Sutton, whose non-selection for the Walker Cup team caused so much discussion, defeated a former Champion in Tweddell by 4 and 3.

Eric Fiddian continued his unbeatable form, ousting the international, Torrance, 4 and 3.

Jones' Winning Way.

In an all-American match, Bobby Jones, American Open Champion, and Johnston, American Amateur Champion, were in opposition. Jones won a great struggle by one hole.

It was a masterful game, and the slightest fault by either player meant a lost hole. Jones led at the second, increasing his lead at the tenth, where he was 2 up, and at the twelfth, Johnston was stymied at the thirteenth, where "Bobby" became 4 up.

Johnston fought back finely, however, winning the fourteenth, fifteenth, and seventeenth, where Jones was only one up. The eighteenth was halved, for Jones to win the match.

Eric Fiddian to-morrow realises a long-cherished ambition, in that he will have a match with Jones.

Wethered's Hard Struggle.

Other matches resulted:—Howell beat Robinson by 4 and 3.

Wethered beat Simpson at the 21st.

Douglas Grant beat the Hon. Michael Scott 3 and 1.

Lister Hartley beat Hill 4 and 3.

Earlier Results.

Hope beat Waddell (Lundin) 4 and 3.

Sutton beat Dawson (Troon) 4 and 3.

Tweddell beat De Forrest (Coombe Hill) 7 and 5.

Bobby Jones beat Watt (Broughty) 7 and 6.

Jones had little relaxation in beating G. O. Watt. He was 2 up at the fourth, with birdie three at the sixth and seventh, and also won the ninth. He went out in thirty-four, turned 5 up, and was 6 up at the eleventh. He stymied Watt at the twelfth.

Howell, the Welsh champion, went out in thirty-six, and was then 3 up. He beat Hezlett 3 and 2, two under fours.

Wethered had a bad attack of hooking, and was one down at the thirteenth. He squared at the fourteenth, to beat Oppenheimer, the former Oxonian captain, 1 up.

The Hon. Michael Scott beat Von Elm at the twentieth.

Lister Hartley (Chislehurst) beat Oumet 4 and 3.

Gordon Simpson beat Nelson Smith 2 and 1.—Reuter.

STOP PRESS

Amsterdam, Yesterday. The Koninklijke Paketvaart Maatschappij's gross profits amount to $1,206,000 compared with $12,000 previously. The dividend is maintained at 14 per cent.—Reuter.

Amsterdam, Yesterday. A Bill has been introduced to authorise the exploration of oil by the Dutch Colonial Oil Company in six grounds and the Bataafsche Olie Company in ten grounds in the Dutch East Indies.—Reuter.

Rangoon, Yesterday. The Governor has appointed a Conciliation Board to work out details of a settlement of the troubles by allocating a proportion of ships to Burmese labour stevedores and shipping agents, the Burma Chamber of Commerce, and the British India Steam Navigation Company. Some of the influential Burmese have given to the principle of a settlement on these lines.—Reuter.

Tokyo, Yesterday.

The Naval members of the Supreme War Council in an informal session, passed a resolution declaring that the Government committed an irregularity in signing the Naval Treaty and dis-regarding the Navy General Staff's advice.

It is feared this action may affect Admiral Tamiyama's position.

AMSTERDAM'S NEW LOCK.

ADDITION TO PORT'S FACILITIES.

The opening by the Queen of Holland of the new entrance lock to the North Sea Canal, leading to the port of Amsterdam, is an event of outstanding importance in commercial and shipping affairs. The lock is of gigantic size, far exceeding anything of the kind hitherto constructed; it has taken ten years to build, and the cost has been about 18 million guilders, say a million and a half sterling.

Although not ranking on precisely the same level with the three great seaports of North-Western Europe, Amsterdam, the commercial metropolis of Holland, has a considerable volume of overseas trade which entitles it to a prominent place in the European hierarchy. This trade which has accrued to the city through centuries of historical vicissitudes, entails upon its authorities no little responsibility in these modern times in maintaining a standard of accessibility and accommodation commensurate with the rapid advances in shipbuilding. Unfortunately, Amsterdam is not favourably endowed by nature with a physical environment suited to its needs and its ambitions as a port.

As far back as the beginning of the 19th century it was recognised that the Zuider Zee afforded no suitable approach, nor means of providing one, for the larger class of vessels frequenting the port. Artificial measures were inevitable, and the Great North Holland Sea Canal was constructed from Nieuwediep, near the Texel Roads, with a length of 49 miles and a serviceable draft of 17 feet. It was opened in 1825, and sufficed for barely 30 years, when conditions again became difficult.

Canal Opened in 1876. An old scheme of making a short cut direct to the North Sea was then revived, and in 1863 it was decided to construct a canal with an outlet on the western seaboard, including a harbour and lock entrances at the little village (as it then was) of Ymuiden. This canal was constructed and opened in 1876. It has a length of 15½ miles, an enlarged bottom to width of 164 feet, and it now affords passage to vessels drawing up to about 31 or 32 feet.

The water in the canal is impounded at fairly constant level, which relieves it from the tidal fluctuations (normally between 5 and 6 feet) of the North Sea and makes the stretch of water from Ymuiden to Amsterdam practically a large inland dock. At the time of its construction it was provided with a couple of entrance locks, the larger of which was 394 feet long by 60 feet wide, with a depth of 28½ feet over sills. These dimensions soon proved to be too small, and within 20 years a new and larger lock had to be provided. It was constructed alongside the existing pair and given dimensions 737 feet by 81 feet, with a depth of 33 feet over sill. It was brought into use in 1896.

Again shipping developments rapidly overtook the accommodation provided. The early years of the 20th century witnessed a rapid increase in size of vessels, and in 1909 it was recognised that further measures would have to be deferred until its close. By 1919 the situation demanded prompt attention, and in that year was commenced the undertaking which is now at the point of completion and which it is expected to put into commission before the end of the current year. Unique and Unapproachable. The new lock has a length of 400 metres (1,312 feet), a width of 50 metres (164 feet), and a depth of water over sill of 15 metres (59 feet). It far exceeds in size the locks of the Panama Canal (1,000 feet by 110 feet by 42 feet), and also those of the Kaiser Wilhelm or Kiel Canal (1,083 feet by 148 feet, by 45 feet). As a great ship canal lock, in fact, the new structure stands unique and unapproachable. The Gladstone Lock at Liverpool is of notable size, 1,070 feet long by 180 feet wide, but it is scarcely comparable with the Ymuiden Lock.

SHIPPING SECTION.

AMSTERDAM'S NEW LOCK.

So striking an addition to the port facilities of Amsterdam indicates a profound faith on the part of its administrators in the future development of the port and the part it is destined to play in commerce during the years that are to come. Up to the present its shipping and trade returns have only been of moderate dimensions compared with those of its three great competitors in the North-West of Europe. Hamburg, Rotterdam and Antwerp handle goods at their respective quays of the order of 20 to 40 million tons per annum. At Amsterdam the quantity is in the neighbourhood of 5 to 6 millions. Yet these figures, relative in themselves, fail to take into account many factors which make for the prosperity of a port, and which cannot be overlooked in estimating its prospects.

Amsterdam has a great number of warehouses and an appreciable entrepot trade, which signifies more business than the simple transshipment of goods overboard, such as is largely characteristic of Rotterdam, and swells its enormous total with tonnages destined, not for the port itself but for the great inland industrial centres served by the waterways of the Rhine and its tributaries. Amsterdam is most akin perhaps to Hamburg, the great entrepot port of Western Europe, with its numerous waterside warehouses and "fleets" bordered stores, in which are housed huge quantities of goods for local marketing and consumption. Amsterdam is a very important centre for trade in tobacco, coffee, cinchona bark, rubber, coconuts, sugar, timber, copra, oranges, spices, dried fruits and rice.

The North Sea Canal has proved an asset of the greatest value to the port, and has altogether superseded the approaches by the North Holland Canal and the Zuider Zee, though these still remain in operation for the smaller classes of vessels frequenting the port. The tonnage of shipping entering the port via the North Sea Canal has increased consistently many times over since 1876, despite the setback and almost total cessation of movement during the war. The canal has been deepened in accordance with the dimensions of new locks. Provisionally a depth of 12.50 metres (41 feet) is being provided, to be increased ultimately to 15 metres (50 feet).

A notable feature of the Amsterdam shipping traffic is the number of regular lines, in which there is a resemblance to Antwerp. Many of them are engaged on services to and from Great Britain and British Dominions and Colonies. Liverpool has a weekly service; London three or four services a week. Other services run to Hull, Leith, Manchester, Dublin, Bristol, Swansea, Plymouth and Cork.

Expressing gratification that His Royal Highness has promised to find time for this event, Mr. Beatty says that his action is a royal compliment to Canada as much as to the Canadian Pacific.

The launching of the 40,000-ton liner will open a new epoch in Canadian trans-Atlantic traffic, President Beatty states. Her speed will make possible a crossing of five days, and she will greatly shorten the journey between Europe and Canada and the middle and western United States. The Empress of Britain will be 756 feet in total length, 77½ feet in beam, and she will have a speed of 24 knots. Passenger accommodation is being provided for 1,100 people and will be the most luxurious and comfortable ever seen on a liner. The new Empress is being built by John Brown and Sons on the Clyde.

NEW R. L. MOTOR SHIP.

BALOERAN ARRIVES ON MAIDEN VOYAGE.

Singapore residents who were the guests of the Rotterdam Lloyd Royal Mail Line at lunch or tea on board the new motor ship Balorean, outward bound to the Dutch East Indies on her voyage, left with a sigh.

"Wish we were coming with you," they said, with conviction but no originality, for the luxury, comfort, spaciousness, beauty and charm of this giant 17,000-ton liner make one feel like that.

There is something distinctly "trans-Atlantic" about the Balorean. "She's big," you think, as you look up at her from the wharf-side, towering above you like a four-storeyed building. "She's bigger than I thought," you realise, when once you are on board, climbing the magnificent double staircases which connect the dining room and the various decks. And then, quite naturally, you begin to speculate how easy it would be to lose yourself on board this artistically appointed floating hotel.

Electric Lifts. There are two electric lifts to whisk you from deck to deck; there is a large open-air swimming-bath measuring 27 feet by 20 feet; there is a delightful upper promenade deck, with a front entirely of glass which enables passengers, even when seated in their deck chairs, to obtain an unobstructed view ahead; there is a nursery and children's playground; there are lobbies, social-halls, smoking rooms and dining rooms—all spacious, comfortable and artistic and each with a distinctive charm of its own.

The Kitchens. But, to the Briton, it is probably the special sports deck—a splendid idea—which makes one of the strongest appeals. Measuring 50 feet by 44 feet this deck is, indeed, an acquisition.

The service department—including a very complete kitchen, sculleries, pantries, ovens, cooking galleries and a laundry—leaves nothing to be desired and everything in it is kept spotlessly clean. But what pleases the ladies most is a completely equipped ironing-room for the use of the passengers.

The Cabins. But the traveller looks first to the cabins and, here again, the Balorean scores. In all she can carry 638 passengers—238 first class, 280 second, 70 third and 48 fourth. Of the 160 cabins in the first class no fewer than 82 are single berth cabins, the remainder all being double cabins.

In the second saloon a feature is the unusually large number of double deck cabins in which accommodation for 180 of the 280 passengers is provided. And the cabins, too, are large and well-appointed.

The Engine Room. No account of the Balorean would be complete without a reference to the engine room, which is a marvel of compactness and gigantic, incomprehensible complexity. The main engine-room rather reminds one of a cathedral full of machinery. Climbing three or four flights of stairs to the dome, as it were, one looks down dizzily into the depths, without the faintest glimmering of enlightenment, in spite of careful explanations, upon the source from which springs the power which drives 17,000 tons through the water at 19 knots. One then wipes one's fingers with a piece of cotton waste

LARGEST &amp; FASTEST STEAMSHIP ON THE PACIFIC

THE First Class Staterooms on the Empress of Japan are designed and finished with the same art and luxury as the public rooms. Generally speaking, they are all outside rooms, with ship's side lights, and are provided with berths in lieu of berths. Intercommunicating doors are fitted between practically all the First Class Staterooms, thus enabling them to be in groups of two or more, as required. Electric lighting is on a lavish scale, and the usual steam heating and ball valve ventilation of the most perfected type are supplemented by electric fans and plugs for electric heating. Wardrobes with pier-glass mirrors, dressing-tables with triple folding mirrors, and pedestal washbasins with running hot and cold fresh water are some of the many modern improvements introduced throughout.

Charms of Yuetching	Opportunities of sightseeing	Not being DEPARTURE HOURS:
Yuetching so encouraging as in Hong Kong 5.30 p.m. Wuchow 1.30 p.m.	"the old days," it will probably be the old-timer who knows Yuetching, on the West River. There is a goddess there who is famous throughout the province of Kwangtung. This year, the celebrations will be on a very ambitious scale. Many of the gaudy tow-boats which constitute the life-blood of West River ports will be at Yuetching for as long as four or five days, leaving very few in the trade. Yes, Yuetching! At festival time is well worth seeing! This year, the festival falls on Wednesday, June 4th. The two comfortable steamers s.s. "Tai Ming" and s.s. "Tai Hing" which go up to the West River will visit this place.

—though this is really a mere formality on the Balorean for the engine room is prodigiously clean—and tries to take off the hat one is not, of course, wearing, to the Chief and his 17 engineers. Then one can descend into "the crypt" and take quite a long walk by the side of one of the two ponderous propeller shafts to the point where it disappears out through the stern. If only one could understand it all a visit to such an engine-room would be a liberal education. In any case it helps to take the conceit out of one.

The Officers and the Crew. But when one has said a few of the things one would like to say concerning the Balorean, what can one say of the officers and those members of the crew with whom one came in contact? The officers made the most thoughtful of hosts and all spoke English so perfectly that one felt immediately at home. And the stewards were as polite as they were efficient. One felt that here was a ship run efficiently in every department.—Straits Times.

TODD OIL-BURNING
EQUIPMENT.33 PER CENT. INCREASE IN FIREBOAT EFFICIENCY.

After successful tests, the fireboat
John Purroy Mitchell was given a rating of 100 per cent. and accepted by the New York Fire Department.
These tests demonstrated that the Todd oil-burning equipment installed on the vessel brought about a 33 per cent. increase in her rating by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. The boat, although only seven years old, had been found unable to generate sufficient steam to run the pumps at full power, so that the vessel was rated by the underwriters at only 67 per cent. of her specified capacity of 9,000 gallons of water per minute, and was practically in the obsolete class.

The New York City authorities,
having in mind the high efficiency
of the two other units of the fire-fighting fleet, both about 20 years old, but rated at 100 per cent. since being reconditioned at the Todd Shipyards Corporation and equipped with the Todd oilburning system four years ago, decided to make a similar installation on the John Purroy Mitchell.

Accordingly the boilers were overhauled, the original oil burners, heaters, strainers and other accessories were removed and the Todd apparatus installed. This consisted of the Todd mechanical atomiser wide range oil-burning system and boiler fronts of the Todd assisted draught type the draught being supplied by turbine driven blowers.

On completion of the job a test made at the Clinton plant showed that the pumps were delivering 9,700 gallons per minute, or 700
gallons per minute above the specified capacity, and that the safety
valves were lifting at the same time, showing that there was more than an adequate supply of steam available. On a trial run, with the pumps operating at full capacity and the throttle wide open, the boat was able to operate at more than half speed and maintain the steam pressure.

Another advantage of the Todd wide range burner installation is that it enables the boat to hold steam economically while standing by, and to swing into high range with stimulated oil flow without changing burner tips or making any other adjustments.

EDUCATION.

No nation may be called great which neglects its children. Had not Great Britain, a century or so ago, repealed those Acts under which children were allowed to work in mines and factories
under the age of twelve, she might now bow her head in shame. It is the boast of our politicians, however, that we do look after our children. In recent years many of the much-needed reforms in regard to minors have owed their birth to the inspired energies of women, such as Miss Margaret Bondfield, Lady Astor, Mrs. Phillpotts, and others. Lady Astor's Bill, prohibiting the sale of liquor to persons under the age of seventeen
on licensed premises, was a tour
de force for the feminist cause
as well as a notable addition to the moral achievements of post-war legislation. There have been other enactments of which our century has every reason to be proud, but that a great deal of ground has still to be covered is shown by the fact that only after tortuous pleas and persuasions has the Government at last deigned to consider the substitution of a longer period of education for children instead of leaving them
to receive the dose.

Under the Government's Education Bill, which passed its second reading in the House of Commons yesterday, the school-leaving age is raised from fourteen to fifteen years. According to the official report, this change "involves over half a million children." Actually, it will be one of the greatest moral victories the present Government has ever won, if the Bill is enacted. Fourteen is the most impressionable age in a human being's life, and the demoralising influence upon those children who are forced,

through economic forces beyond
our immediate control, to accept a pauper's allowance from the State cannot be exaggerated in its gravity. The principles of decency and self-respect which they have acquired at school are chattered by this humiliation, which must in many cases alter the social outlook and weaken the moral fibre of the recipient. The Education Bill promises to alter
all this. Its other advantageous effect is that it will enable a hundred thousand or more deserving adult cases to receive unemployment benefit.

It would be going too far even to suggest that the Bill is a step forward toward the solution of the unemployment problem, but it is a happy compromise with a two-fold beneficial effect. It will be well worth the annual burden of $5,000,000, which the British taxpayer is promised as the cost of the new Act when in operation, for if as a result of this higher education the standards of morality, character, and intelligence of the young people of Britain are correspondingly raised, we shall have every reason to bless the far-sighted policy that fathered it.
The youth to-day in Great Brittain among the lower classes has developed under an atmosphere of stagnant irresponsibility—the heritage of the War. The aftermath of any great social upheaval often deteriorates a section of a nation's manhood, and that, in turn, is bound to have a repercussion upon the youth. There is everything in the environment of our cities and in our modern social life to encourage apathy, lack of independence, and the acceptance of the law of the line of least resistance. In education we lag sadly behind the United States, where psychology as applied to juvenile education has enabled the teacher to treat and prescribe for the individual. Splendid work has been done for education by scholastic bodies and by the universities, yet the work must be judged by its results. There is are too many failures in life not to blame our educational system;

and the family system is equally at fault. There is not sufficient co-operation between the teacher and the parent, the more ignorant of whom still regard the compulsory element in State education as something opposed to their interests and those of their children.
Until this medieval attitude is changed little can be done to better the present system, in spite of the tears of patient teachers and the occasional grants of benevolent Governments.

News in Brief

The Netherland Indian Government has rescinded the quarantine measures against Amoy, declared a plague-infected port on May 17.

The China Mail has received a copy of the May issue of the Yellow Dragon from Queen's College. In addition to the usual school notes
a long instalment is published of an article on "A Glimpse of the West River."

Mr. D. Kinloch, of 376 The Peak, has reported to the Police the loss of an Axminster carpet, which is stated to have been either stolen or lost while in transit from his residence to Whiteaway, Laidlaw & Co. Limited, to be dry-cleaned.

A Chinese constable, while on patrol in the Peak district, found some seditious papers and took them to the Central Police Station. In connection with this a Chinese has been arrested and is being detained for further enquiries.

That Britain is declining, historically, relatively, and in many other respects, was a motion which was carried by 11 votes to 8 at a debate by members of the St.
Andrew's Club last night. The proposition was led by the Rev.
E. A. Armstrong, while the opposition was led by the Rev. W. Walton Rogers.

A free licence and $2 capital
money was ordered by Mr. A. W.
G. H. Grantham, to-day, to be paid out of the Court's poor box to a Chinese boy who was charged before him with hawking without a licence. The boy's mother, who said that she was 55 years of age and infirm, pleaded for leniency for her son, who was driven to hawk because he had nothing to eat.

That Indian Policemen were noted for their messing up of cases and appearance as bad witnesses, was a comment made by Sergeant Barnicle
at the Kowloon Magistracy to-day, when Mr. Whyte-Smith discharged
a Chinese, charged with hawking bean curd without a licence, on the ground that the evidence given by an Indian P.C. was a little doubtful.
His Worship remarked that this constable had given unsatisfactory
evidence in one or two cases before.

LEPER BEGGAR.

A Nuisance in Queen's Road.

AUTHORITIES' QUANDARY.

A Chinese leper was to-day charged before Mr. A. W. G. H.
Grantham with begging in Queen's Road.

Sub-Inspector Dick stated that he had himself taken compassion
on the accused and given him $1
on two occasions, to get out of the Colony, being 60 cents for fare
on a native junk, and 40 cents for food during the trip. However, he persisted in returning.
Because of his disease, the accused could not be sent to the jail, and the Police were at a loss to know what to do with him.
There is a leper settlement in Canton to which lepers were sent formerly, but now accommodation
there is so taxed that no more can be admitted unless a special paper is obtained from a Missionary Society.

Gruesome Exhibition.
The accused made himself a regular nuisance in Queen's Road Central exhibiting the stumps of his hands. When arrested he had a hat in which were about 70 cents in coppers.

The Inspector added that he did not know what other money the accused had on his person, remarking: "Personally I would not care to search him." They could send the accused to Deep Bay as the most inexpensive means of getting rid of him, but from experience it was practically useless, because it was found that beggars who were sent there usually managed to conceal themselves on a ferry launch or other craft and return to Hong Kong, sometimes even before the Police launch which had taken them out
had come back.

A Stern Warning.
He suggested that the best that could be done with the accused was for the Magistrate to administer a stern warning, then the

UNITED STATES OF EUROPE.

PLAN UNDER WHICH BRITAIN
WOULD HAVE TO KEEP OUT.

M. POINCARÉ'S CRITICISM.

Paris, Yesterday.
Commenting on M. Briand's plan for a United States of Europe, M. Raymond Poincaré thinks that the welcome accorded to it by the nations to which it was addressed was polite but generally not encouraging. It has

M. Poincaré.

been made apparent that Europe (if such entity exists) still has many stages to pass before attaining the goal aimed at.

M. Poincaré raises the question of whether the Soviet and Brittain will join, and challenges the suggestion that Britain should keep out of the United States of Europe because of her position in a world empire. France is in an even more embarrassing position,
because her Parliament has collateral representatives entitled to in-terpellate the Government in regard to what is happening in the European Association.—Reuter.

RANGOON RIOTS.

Military Police Open Fire.

Rangoon, Yesterday.
A gang of Burmese last night
attacked some Andaras near the hospital, and the military police opened fire and restored order.

The situation in the city this morning showed a further slight improvement, but shipping is still at a standstill.

The hospital casualty list gives 51 dead, and 657 Hindus, 29
Muslims, 68 Burmese, 13 Chinese,
and 5 Europeans and Anglo-Indians wounded.—Reuter.

DRUG FACTORY.

Successful Raid in Peking.

Peking, Yesterday.
The Chinese police, assisted by the Legation police, raided an alleged drug factory in the Legation Quarter yesterday, and seized quantities of heroin and morphia, and appliances
for the manufacture of drugs.

They took into custody twelve Chinese.

The premises were formerly used by the late Mr. George Frodsham
as a warehouse.

The vernacular papers assert that the factory represents a capital investment of $300,000.—Reuter.

ECCLESIASTICAL LAWYERS.

The death of Mr. Aubrey Lawrence removes one who was better known to the public than the generality of ecclesiastical lawyers. At the best they are a small band, for with the withdrawal last century of probate and marriage causes from the jurisdiction of the Church Courts the field of practice was greatly restricted.

Mr. Lawrence was chancellor, vicar-general, and official principal of no fewer than seven dioceses.
In other words, he was the judge appointed by the bishop in each case to preside in his name over the Consistory Court.

The choice of a successor or, no doubt, successors, in these offices is necessarily narrow. Two names mentioned are those of Mr. Marshall Freeman, Recorder of Stamford, and Mr. J. A. Price, both of whom are much consulted in ecclesiastical matters.

Police could lock him up in an isolated cell pending arrangements for sending him away
again.

The Magistrate took this course and warned the accused that, if he was found in the Colony again, all his money would be taken away from him.

U.S. NAVAL POWER IN THE FAR EAST.

"SHOULD HAVE A HARD TIME IN WINNING A WAR."

ADMIRAL'S OUTBURST.

Washington, Yesterday.
The Senate Naval Committee has concluded the hearing of evidence in regard to the London Treaty. The final witnesses included Admiral Robison, who testified that the United States would get insufficient eight-inch guns and too many six-inch. He urged that the concessions to Japan under the Treaty amounted to a partial surrender of American sovereignty in the Philippines.
"We are worse off in every combatant vessel. We shall find ourselves in insurmountable difficulties in the Far East. I don't mean that we should lose a war, but we should have a hard time winning it."

Two Senators expressed the opinion that the reservations to the Treaty were necessary. The Senate passed a Bill providing $80,000,000 for the Navy.—Reuter's American Service.

NINETEEN WRITS!

Broad Shouldered Man
Disputes Them All.

AN INVASION OF WOMEN.

It is not very usual for a defendant to find himself called on to answer to no fewer than nineteen summons, but such is the unenviable lot of Tso Yan-pak, who appeared this morning in the Summary Court before Mr. Justice J. R.
Wood.

The plaintiffs in all these writs are women of the coolie class, and when they paraded before the Puisne Judge this morning, they formed a formidable array.

Mr. R. A. Wadson, who appeared for the defendant, gave them a good "look-over" and quietly asked his Lordship to fix a date for the hearing of the cases.

The defendant, Mr. Wadson, said, was the owner of a piece of land. He contracted with a firm of building contractors to build houses thereon. The firm sub-let the contract to another party, and these women were engaged by the sub-contractor, who had since absconded.
The women had no right to sue the owner for the recovery of any wages
due to them.

When this was interpreted to the women, they shouted out in one voice that that was not the real position. It was true that they were engaged by the sub-contractor, but when they threatened to cease work because they had not been paid and had no money to buy food, the owner came forward and asked them to continue, saying that if they could not get payment from the sub-contractor, he would pay them himself. "A promise is a promise and he must pay," they said!

His Lordship fixed June 4 at 2
p.m. for the hearing of the case.
The claims amount in all to about $500.

Mr. Henry Twitchin, of Portland
Place, W., formerly a sheep farmer
in Australia, has bequeathed a sum of £100,000 to further the cause of eugenics.

An inquest on the 14-year-old son of the vicar of St. Thomas's, Barrowford, who was found hanged at the vicarage, was adjourned. The coroner remarked that there was mystery concerning the tragedy.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bethune Campbell,
the first woman to argue an appeal
before a Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, had a judgment given in her favour.

The Burgomaster of Amsterdam,
who is a guest of the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, accompanied his host on a number of civic engagements.

Ten Years Ago

[From the "China Mail"
May 30, 1920.]

To-day's dollar is worth 4/- 14d.

The s.s. Fausang of the Indo-China Steam Navigation Company, struck and grounded on the rocks near Hoihow, while enroute from Hongkong to Hong Kong,
with 2,000 tons of coal.

The Naval authorities have despatched the H.M.S. Fame to the scene having on board as passenger Captain Wheeler, the Marine Superintendent of the Indo-China Company.

The European officers are still on board, but the Chinese crew
has been brought to Hong Kong.
The Fausang is a vessel of 3,000 tons. Latest reports indicate that her holds and engine rooms are flooded, and that the ship is quite badly damaged.

stands at £235,469, 14s. 8d. and as our Dividend costs us £270,000 it would appear from the Balance Sheet that our interest is £34,530-5s. 4d. less than the Dividend payable. These figures are affected by exchange and do not show the position fully.

As you are aware the Society owns the majority of the shares in five Subsidiary Companies, viz., the British Traders' Insurance Company, Limited, The China Fire Insurance Company, Limited, the North China Insurance Company, Limited, The Yangtze Insurance Association Limited, and the Far Eastern Insurance Company, Limited. None of these Companies at the present time are paying away more than their interest in Dividend (except the "British Traders" which on the 1928 Account pays a small amount of £576-0s.10d. in excess) and in certain cases they are paying away rather less. If the full interest were paid away by these Companies the interest of the Society would be increased by approximately £20,000 and I therefore estimate that at December 31, 1929, the interest covered the Society's Dividend by all but about £15,000.

In view of the uncertainty of exchange it has been decided not to increase the Dividends of the subsidiary Companies.

You will realise that a large percentage of the silver investments shown in the Balance Sheet at £1,524,419-2s.3d. are represented by holdings in our subsidiary Companies, "The China Fire" and "The Yangtze" and although these Companies' Capitals are in silver you will realise that they have considerable holdings in Gold securities.

Business Transacted.
Commenting now upon the business transacted by the Society, the result of its Marine Underwriting during the years 1928 and 1929, considering the times, has not been unsatisfactory, although after payment of our final Dividend for 1928 owing to the drop in exchange the amount carried to Underwriting Suspense Account is less than in the preceding year. Our Underwriting Suspense Account however is in a strong position to meet third year's claims as these occur.

Profit Maintained.
A pleasing feature of our Report is that we have been able to maintain our profit on the 1929 Account as at December 31 1929 as compared with the 1928 Account at the end of the first year, the balance being £440,790-1s.4d. this being an increase over the previous year notwithstanding the decrease in the Sterling value of the Dollar and the consequent decrease in the Sterling equivalent of our interest.

The combined result of our Fire and General business for the year 1929 was not unfavourable and left a fair profit after setting up all the necessary reserves.

Society's Strong Position.
Our business is well spread and world-wide and the Society is in a good position to reap the benefit of any improvement in general conditions. I am confident that our organisation throughout the world is well set up and controlled, and I have every confidence that the prosperity of the Society will respond to improved trading conditions.

Investments.
Turning now to our investments it will be of interest to Shareholders to know that the market value of the investments held by the Society and its Affiliated Companies on December 31 last, issued in Great Britain and comprising British Government and other first class Sterling Securities, amounted approximately to £940,000. This figure shows a depreciation of about £45,000 as compared with the prices ruling on December 31 1928. As you are aware, prices of first class securities in the London Market for various reasons were low at the close of the year. There has, however, been a good recovery since that date.

American Holdings.
The Society and its Affiliated Companies have investments in the United States of America totalling a little over one million Sterling these being made up of Government Securities, Railroad Bonds, a limited number of Debentures in high class Public Utility Companies and in a few Industrial undertakings.

The excellence of our Securities in that country is borne out by the fact that the debacle which occurred last year on the New York Stock Exchange did not affect our position, our Stocks showing at the end of the year an appreciation on their purchase price and further we have not a single Security in that Country which is not paying its interest in full. The Society's investments are very carefully looked after by your United States Managers, Messrs. Marsh & McLennan, Inc.

Paying Securities.
It will further interest you to know that with the exception of some small holdings in certain securities purchased prior to the Great War, and which are valued in our Books at £4,123-0s.4d. we have not a Security on the Books of the Society and of its Affiliated Companies which is not paying its interest in full.

You are all aware, Gentlemen, of the many difficulties with which the business of insurance has had to be faced during the last few years, these difficulties being accentuated by depressed conditions of trade. I think you will agree that under all the circumstances the position the Society finds itself in reflects credit upon the General Manager, Agents and Staff.

Staff Changes.
Since we last met Mr. E. W. C. de Gyalay has retired from his position of General Manager for Australia and his resignation was accepted by your Board with regret. Mr. Gyalay was first engaged by the Society in 1907 and has given devoted and efficient service. I am sure you will all join with me in wishing him a very happy retirement.

Mr. Trevor Gould, the Assistant General Manager for Australasia, has been appointed to the post vacated by Mr. Gyalay and Mr. R. C. Langker has recently been appointed Assistant General Manager in the place of Mr. Gould. We all wish these gentlemen success in their new appointments.

Secunder's Speech.
Mr. A. H. Ferguson, in seconding the motion, said:

Mr. Chairman, and Gentlemen:—It gives me great pleasure to second the Report and the Accounts. We have been given ample time to examine the figures, and it is most gratifying to learn the satisfactory financial position, not only of the Society itself, but of its affiliated Companies.

We have listened with great interest to the very able speech from the Chair. It cannot be expected with a trade depression existing all over the world that insurance business should be immune or be totally unaffected thereby.

It is however rather to be deplored in the period under review that a great deal of ill-considered competition has in some branches of insurance at least, reduced premiums to a point hardly commensurate with the risks involved. Nevertheless we are pleased to be given your assurance that tendencies are apparent that underwriters generally are more prone to watch the statistics of their business which we trust will tend to stop what you have termed haphazard underwriting, and enable Insurance Companies to obtain a more reasonable return for their services.

Gold Investments.
When we turn to the large Gold Investments the Society possesses the Shareholders must wish to convey their high appreciation and thanks to the General Manager and those working with him, for the sound manner in which the investments of the Society and its affiliated Companies have been selected. The depreciation in the value of London holdings at the end of 1929 is considerable but a large portion of this amount will have already been recouped in the quotations ruling to-day.

It is most gratifying to learn, Sir, that with regard to our investments in the United States, amounting to over one million pounds Sterling, the value of these stocks in spite of the debacle in the New York Stock Exchange last October, did not affect our position. Also that we do not own a single security in the States that is not paying its interest in full.

Silver Drop Minimised.
Through some of its affiliated Companies being capitalised in Hong Kong dollars, the Society's performance shows large silver investments in its Balance Sheet but these same Companies have their funds largely invested in gold, and this minimises the position of the low silver values.

We note the resignation of Mr. E. W. C. de Gyalay, the General Manager for Australasia, who has given the Society 23 years efficient service. I feel sure we all join our Chairman in wishing for his happy retirement and at the same time we hope for Mr. Trevor Gould the same success his predecessor had in that field of our operations.

Able Management.
In conclusion, Mr. Chairman, in formally seconding the Reports and Accounts I feel sure the Shareholders will concur that we are under an obligation to our General Manager, ably supported as he has been by his Staff here, and in all parts of the world, for the good results achieved, and I have much pleasure in heartily wishing the Society continued prosperity. I have much pleasure in seconding the Report and Accounts.

The motion was then put to the meeting, and carried unanimously.

Other Business.
Upon the proposal of Mr. H. B. L. Dowling, seconded by Mr. L. E. N. Ryan, the retiring Directors, Messrs. J. A. Plummer and J. P. Warren, were re-elected.

Manuk, seconded by Mr. A. D. Humphreys.

The Chairman intimated that dividend warrants were ready.

Those Present.

Supporting the Chairman were the Hon. Mr. C. G. S. Mackie, Messrs. J. K. Bousfield, J. A. Plummer, D. O. Russell, J. P. Warren (Directors), and Mr. Paul

Lauder (General Manager). Shareholders present were the Hon. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton and Messrs. J. W. Albaster, A. E. S. Alves, G. S. Archbutt, J. D. Butcher, B. M. C. da Cunha, N. V. A. Croucher, H. B. L. Dowling, L. G. S. Dodwell, R. A. Dastur, F. M. Ellis, John Fleming, A. H. Ferguson, H. C. Gray, W. F. Gardner, A. D. Humphreys, Ho Kom-tong, O.B.E., J. H. Little, M. Manuk, James Park, F. H. Rolfe, V. R. V. Ribeiro, O. F. Ribeiro, L. E. N. Ryan, C. Savard Remedios, F. W. Stapleton, E. H. S. Summers, V. F. Soares, T. H. R. Shaw, M. A. R. Souza, Sum Pak-ming, Allan Stevenson, and K. Stuart Smith.

CHINA FIRE INSURANCE CO.

A meeting of the China Fire Insurance Company, Limited, was held immediately after the Union Insurance Company meeting.

The Chairman, in proposing the adoption of the Report and Accounts, said:

Gentlemen:—The Report and Accounts were issued on May 8, and subject to your approval, I will follow the usual procedure and take them, as well as the Auditors' Report, as read.

The Working Account for the year 1928 shows a balance of $548,094-68. Your Directors recommend that a final Dividend of $9 per Share and a Bonus Dividend of $6 per Share on 20,000 Shares be paid to Shareholders, absorbing $900,000, and that the balance be carried forward to Underwriting Suspense Account to close the Account for the year 1928.

The balance at credit of the 1929 Working Account is $1,127,629-85. Out of this balance your Directors recommend the payment of an Interim Dividend of $3 per Share, absorbing $60,000, and that the remainder be carried forward.

Effect Of Falling Dollar.
As was only to be anticipated, the Accounts before you are affected considerably by the fall in the Sterling value of the Dollar on December 31 as compared with December 31 the previous year.

For example, you will notice that the total of the Assets of the Company is increased by over $2,000,000 as compared with the previous year. The explanation of this large increase is that the Company has a preponderance of Gold Assets over Silver, the Dollar equivalent of which is, of course, considerably augmented.

Increased Balance.
The balance at the credit of the Working Account for 1929 is over $160,000 more than the balance of the 1928 Working Account at the corresponding period last year, which is a satisfactory increase notwithstanding the fact that it has also been affected by Exchange.

In view of the present uncertain conditions and difficulties of trade, the policy of your Directors in leaving the Dividend unaltered will, I know, commend itself to you.

I now move that the Directors Report and Statement of Accounts as presented be adopted, and when this has been seconded I shall be pleased to answer any questions you may care to ask.

The resolution was seconded by Mr. G. S. Archbutt, and carried unanimously.

The retiring Directors, Messrs. J. A. Plummer and J. P. Warren, were re-elected, as were the Auditors, Messrs. Lowe, Bingham & Matthews, and Messrs. Linstead & Davis.

Those Present.
Those present were the Hon. Mr. J. Owen Hughes (Chairman), the Hon. Mr. C. G. S. Mackie, Messrs. J. K. Bousfield, J. A. Plummer, D. O. Russell, J. P. Warren (Directors), and Mr. Paul

Lauder (General Manager). Shareholders present were Messrs. J. W. Albaster, G. S. Archbutt, A. E. S. Alves, John Bentley, N. V. A. Croucher, B. M. C. da Cunha, F. M. Ellis, John Fleming, F. H. Farne, and H. C. Gray.

BRITISH TRADERS' INSURANCE.
The Hon. Mr. J. Owen Hughes, chairman of the Company, in proposing the adoption of the Report and Accounts, at the meeting this morning, said:

Gentlemen:—The Report and Accounts were issued on May 9, which will have given you time to study the figures. I propose, therefore, to follow the usual practice and take them, as well as the Auditors' Report, as read.

The Working Account for the year 1928 after payment of an Interim Dividend of 5 Shillings per share and a Bonus of 20 per cent to Contributors, passed at the last Annual Meeting, shows a balance of £49,799-12-6, and your Directors recommend that a final Dividend of 4 Shillings per Share on 96,000 Shares be paid to Shareholders, ab-

AUSSIERS' FOURTH VICTORY.

OXFORD TROUNCED. NOTTS TWO DAY SUCCESS!

London, Yesterday.
[The Australians defeated Oxford University by an innings and 158 runs.]
Declaring at their overnight total of 406-2, the Australians gained an innings' victory over Oxford University. C. V. Grimmett was again deadly, and was largely responsible for Oxford's low total, taking 5 wickets for 48 runs out of a total of 124. Following on, requiring 282 runs to save the innings' defeat, the 'Varsity were soon in trouble and were dismissed for their first innings' total. T. Wall, the tourists' fast bowler claimed 4 wickets for 29 runs.
This two day victory comes as a welcome rest to the travel worn visitors, and a rest of any duration is always appreciable. This is their fourth success in the present tour. To-morrow they are playing at Southampton against Hampshire.

NOTTS SECOND IN TABLE.
Innings' Victory.
[Notts defeated Glamorgan by an innings and 126 runs.]
Notts once again forced a win in two days, this time at the expense of Glamorgan. The visitors took first knock at Trent Bridge and compiled 231. Notts, on going to the wicket, were able to declare their innings closed at 443-9. Requiring 212 to save the innings' defeat, the visitors collapsed in a startling manner before the bowling of Barratt and Voce. Falling by 126 runs, Glamorgan suffered an innings' defeat. Barratt took 5 wickets for 24 runs and Voce 4 for 23.
This victory sends Notts up to second place in the Championship table. Lancashire, on account of a no result match at Lord's, hold a four point lead for the same number of matches played. Warwickshire are three points behind the Champions.

Prospects for To-morrow

CAN THE LEADERS SURVIVE AT KOWLOON DOCK?

[By "Short Head"]

The apparently haphazard manner of compiling the fixture card is demonstrated by the fact that the leaders—the Civil Service C.C.—have to travel three Saturdays in succession, visiting the Kowloon Dock to-morrow and the Craigengower on the following Saturday. It may be to the good, however, that they have a trio of hard nuts to crack so early in the season, especially as in July they will be playing at home on three Saturdays in succession.

Last year the Civil Service went down badly on the Kowloon Dock green by 36-34, so that they will have to go all out to reverse this record and keep their undefeated record this season. That they can play as well away is evident from their victories over the Club de Recreio and the K.B.G.C. The Kowloon Dock have played only one of their four matches at home, so that they are due to be at home to-morrow. They won a week ago by the narrow margin of two shots, chiefly through the wet/greens, which they countered better than the Club de Recreio, and they may conclude that it is their turn to win before their own supporters to-morrow.

C.C.C. v. Club de Recreio.
The C.C.C., owing to the vagaries of the fixture list, play the second of three matches on their own soil to-morrow when they meet the Club de Recreio, who lost a year ago by 31-44. So far the C.C.C. have lost only one match and that away, so that form points to another victory to-morrow. The Club de Recreio have won one match away, but lost at home to the Civil Service and the Kowloon Dock, whilst they drew on their own ground with Talkoo. If Luz is drawn against Bradbury there may be "fireworks" to-morrow.

Police R.C. v. K.C.C.
Without a single point so far, the Police R.C. may be expected to do their best to beat the K.C.C., by whom they were defeated last season by the narrow margin of 60-58. The K.C.C. started the season with a fine win over the Bowling Green Club, since when they have lost to the C.C.C., the Kowloon Dock R.C. and the Talkoo R.C. This points to a close finish to-morrow, but much depends on the personnel of the Police team.

Talkoo v. Bowling Green Club.
Last season the Talkoo won by 66-51. This year they have beaten the Police and K.C.C., drawn with the Club de Recreio, and lost to the Civil Service. The K.B.G.C. have beaten the Kowloon Dock and the Craigengower and lost to the K.C.C. and the Civil Service. The Talkoo Club may be expected to endeavour to retain their unbeaten record on their own green.

DIVISION II.

Club de Recreio v. C.C.C.

Last season the Club de Recreio lost this match by 62-49. The Club de Recreio this year have won two and lost two matches, whilst the C.C.C. have won one only. The former have already established a reputation for losing or winning when least expected, so that it may be safer not to predict the outcome of their struggle to-morrow.
Civil Service v. Electric R.C.
A year ago the Civil Service got both points by a margin of 78-46. They have won all their four games this season, as compared with only

BROKEN TIME QUESTION.

The Olympic Congress has shelved the question of broken time on a British motion and has also decided to allow women to compete in the same events as at Amsterdam. It has been decided that the Los Angeles games shall last 16 days.—Renter.

BASEBALL.

"Gobs" to Meet South China Outfit.

The "Gobs" baseball crew from U.S.S. Helena will meet the South China outfit on Caroline Hill on Sunday, the game being timed to start at 3 p.m.
At the last encounter the sailors trounced the Chinese, and the local bunch are out for revenge. The sailors say "nothing doing," so the result will be a rare good game.

one win for the Electric Club. The latter, however, rearranged their forces a week ago and beat Talkoo by no fewer than 40 shots. This revival ought to hearten them considerably, whilst it will also show the Civil Service that they cannot afford to take them too cheaply. The latter lose the services of both Deakin and Taylor very shortly, so they may be expected to gather in as many points as possible whilst the going is good.

K.C.C. v. Yacht Club.

The Yacht Club won last year by 71-45. This season the K.C.C. have won two out of four matches and the Yacht Club have won one out of three. Taking a line between the K.C.C. v. K.B.G.C. and the Yacht Club v. K.B.G.C. matches, the Yacht Club might just get home to-morrow.

K.B.G.C. v. Talkoo.

Last year the Talkoo Club won by 62-56. The K.B.G.C. share with the Civil Service this year the distinction of winning all four matches, whilst Talkoo have still to win a match. Form certainly points to a win for the home Club to-morrow.

sorbing £19,200, and that the balance be carried forward to Underwriting Suspense Account.

The balance of Working Account for the year 1929 stands at $174,668. 17. 6. Out of this balance your Directors recommend the payment of an Interim Dividend of 5 Shillings per Share, absorbing $24,000, and that a Bonus of 20 per cent. be paid to Contributors of business on Bonus terms, absorbing about £10,000, and that the remainder be carried forward.

BLOW TO THE DOLE.*School-Leaving Age to Be Raised.*MORE SCHOOLS NEEDED.

Rugby, Yesterday.

The Government's Education Bill, which raises the school-leaving age from 14 to 15 years, was debated on the second reading in the House of Commons to-day. The President of the Board of Education, Sir Charles Trevelyan, explaining its scope, said that by giving another year's schooling to over 400,000 children the competition of children in the labour market would evidently be reduced. Work would thus be provided for 100,000 people now receiving unemployment benefit and would represent £3,000,000 saving in unemployment benefit. The total cost of raising the school age would be £5,500,000. To accommodate the children in view of the proposed leaving age change, 100 new schools were being built, and there were 350 school enlargements going on.—British Wireless Service.

Boon for Teachers.

London, Yesterday.

The House of Commons passed the second reading of the Government Education Bill, providing for the raising of the school leaving age from 14 to 15 years. Sir Charles Trevelyan (Lab.), moving the reading, said that 500,000 children yearly were involved. The Government desired to keep them out of the labour market and thus leave room for 100,000 to 150,000 people to replace them, while 8,000 additional teachers would be required. The Bill would provide maintenance allowances for children of poorer families when they went to school for the extra year.

MALAYA'S MINES.*The Hottest in the World.*OFFER TO TOURISTS.

Stretched up and down Malaya, from Siam to within a few miles of the Equator, are the hottest mines in the world; they are the tin mines of the Malayan peninsula and they represent a large part of the Empire's mineral wealth in the Far East.

The mines—and the ore is found in a variety of ways even within the same square mile—are the most fascinating in the world. So interesting and so picturesque are some of the methods of tin-mining and so beautiful are the environments that one tourist agency in Singapore now offers to whisk its clients round one or two tin mines while they are in Malaya. But visitors, on the whole, are few; the heat even on these winter days effectively protects the secrets of the mines.

The quickest and most efficient means of tin mining to-day is dredging. There is something hypnotic about watching the buckets ceaselessly rise from the warm, yellowish water. Often they bring up things other than clay—trunks of trees, relics from another jungle long buried, and often a snake.

It is mostly at night, when the dredge whirrs and sighs in a blaze of searchlights, that the snakes come aboard. Grey-black cobras, pythons, bright green snakes, and snakes that glisten like the moon—the last horrible but harmless. Only recently a sleepy python had suddenly found himself suspended over two buckets and being carried swiftly upwards. Chinese coolies had half killed and skinned him before he realised what had happened.

Hot though it is under the corrugated iron roof of the dredge, this is as a breath of Everest compared with the interior depths of a lode mine. Even the Chinese coolie, the hardest worker in the world and the strongest, can only bear the incredible heat of these deep mines—for a few months.

Oh, they are beautiful to look upon, these tin mines of Malaya. There is no smoke, no dust, nor dirt.

Tropical wild flowers and flowering trees blazed round the top of this particular mine. Round it all the jungle pressed, waiting perhaps for man to cease his endeavours here, so that it might once more people the little clearing with its greatest extravaganzas. The last thing seen before the cage descended was a tangle of orchids and one great yellow flower, slashed with scarlet, like a painted face.

There are pleasant ways of tin-mining than deep mining. The coolie gathers the ore by playing a monitor—really a majestic kind of garden hose—on to a cliff of tin-bearing ground. A jet of water, at a pressure of 200lb. or more, amazes the ground away like artillery.

Artillery indeed it is, for not many nights ago one coolie playing the monitor against the cliff saw two greenish eyes regarding him from the right. Only one inhabitant of the jungle had eyes like that, the coolie knew, and more in terror than in judgment he turned the "hose" on to the eyes. There was a roar, and silence. In the morning they found the lacerated body of a tiger, so broken that even his skin was valueless.

WHAT IS A LAUGHING JACKASS?

The depth of human vision, sympathy and understanding enjoyed by Post Office officials has often been a mystery to the public. Now this mystery is solved, and in a very convincing manner, too. A set of Civil Service examination questions recently contained these three questions:

- 1.—"What is a laughing jackass?"
- 2.—"How far can a rabbit run into a tunnel?"
- 3.—"How do pineapples grow?"

SCARED BY THREATS OF KISSES.*STORIES OF COLONEL LINDBERGH.*EX-AMBASSADOR'S MEMOIRS.

London, April 17.

An amusing story of Col. Lindbergh, the famous Trans-Atlantic flyer, is told in "Myron T. Herrick, Friend of France," an autobiographical biography by Col. T. Bentley Mott.

When the airman arrived at Le Bourget, all Paris went wild. By the stratagem of a reporter putting on Lindbergh's helmet and leading the crowd away from their quarry, Lindbergh was taken to an office on the grounds.

"While we were talking," Mr. Herrick told the author, "one of the Frenchmen politely pushed a chair up, and suggested that Lindbergh sit down. 'Thank you,' he replied, 'I have been sitting.'"

Aviator's Modesty.

Another story illustrates the young aviator's modesty.

"One of Lindbergh's remarks that most deeply impressed me," said Mr. Herrick, "was this reply to some congratulatory comment of mine upon his great feat. He said: 'You must remember, Mr. Ambassador, how much easier it is to fly from New York to Paris than it would be from Paris to New York.'"

"The first thing we did was to pay a visit to Mme. Nungesser (whose son had been lost in attempting the east to west flight). She was in a pitiful state of emotion, and begged Lindbergh to find him for her. A large crowd had assembled around the house, and we had some difficulty in making our way through it. Several girls tried to kiss him. He was scared to death."

A Memory of the War.

Mr. Herrick was for many years American Ambassador to France. During the German advance on Paris in 1914, he pluckily remained in the capital with his wife, after the French Government and the Diplomatic Corps had gone to Bordeaux.

"I intended," he said later, "in case the Germans reached the outskirts of the city, and demanded its surrender, to go out and talk with their commander, and, if possible, the Kaiser."

At the time, he said, "Some defender of the law of nations ought to stay. Who will protect your monuments, your libraries? I can speak in the name of the United States, and have no fear. I will find a way to prevent pillage and massacre."

A Story About Edison.

One of Mr. Herrick's favourite stories was about Edison, the inventor. The first words he heard over his phonograph were, "Mary had a little lamb." He was so astonished and overwhelmed by his success, after many hours of final experimenting, without food, that he nearly fainted.

He even thought he was going to die on the spot, and, staggering into a friend's house, exclaimed: "If I am going to die, this thing must be known first. It can be done. It has been done."

Had he wished, Mr. Herrick could have stood for, and probably won, the Presidency. In 1920 Senator Harding said to him, "Myron, if you will run, I will not raise my finger to get the nomination."

On this offer he says: "I told him I did not want it, and I told him why."

The answers were as follows, and very few were correct:

- 1.—A bird, and not a quadruped (nor a biped), as some people would have us believe.
  - 2.—A rabbit can run half-way into a tunnel; then it starts to run out.
  - 3.—Pineapples grow like mangelwurzel.
- After questions and answers like these it is easy to understand the extent of the worldly wisdom of the Civil Servant.

SEA-LEOPARD.*Marine Marauder of the Antarctic.

Oslo, May 1.

The first authentic report of the "Norvegia" expedition to the Antarctic was received when Captain Riser Larsen and Captain Lutow Holm returned to Oslo last week. The cruise lasted for four months and included an area from 55 degrees East to 15 degrees West.

"On one occasion," said Captain Larsen, "we were short of coal and had to kill seals and sea-leopards for fuel under the kettles. I have always agreed with those who condemn the killing of animals for such purposes, and I still do, but with one reservation—that sea-leopards should be used as a substitute for coal in the widest possible degree. The sea-leopard is a disgusting beast of prey, far more blood-thirsty than the shark. It is between twelve and fifteen feet long. When we lay off the Bouvet Island and had to row between the ship and the shore the sea-leopards always followed our boat and even attacked the oars. The animals had the biggest jaws and the most awful teeth I ever saw."

"One of the most characteristic features of animal life in the Antarctic is due to the sea-leopard. The seals in the Arctic got into the sea as soon as they scent danger. In the Antarctic it is impossible to make the seals jump into the sea because of their fear of the sea-leopard."

Two of the brothers Sass, who are suspected of a bank robbery, have again been arrested by the Berlin police in suspicious circumstances.

"THE STRAITS AT SINGAPORE"

MARITIME LIFE OF THE WORLD AND THE AGES.

—The gleaming beach and the palm trees, the Straits at Singapore, like the drawing away of a filmy curtain the shadows lift from the eastern horizon. A streak of crimson deepens rapidly, then changes to gold. A rose tiny touches the fleecy monsoon clouds, and the islands are bathed in a soft lavender hue. The gray of the sea yields to a deep purple and then to the turquoise blue of the tropical day. Suddenly, then, following quickly its outriders of crimson and gold, the sun leaps above the horizon. It is morning in the Straits.

Singapore awakes to life if, indeed, it can truly be said ever to have been asleep. At any rate, the subdued noises of the night, seemingly softened to a dull murmur by the very weight of the thick equatorial darkness, swell into the tumult of the turbulent day in this strange place where twenty tongues clamour for expression. Every teeming street bursts into a babe-like activity. The legendary tranquillity of the East is markedly absent. White and yellow, black and brown, Chinese and Malay and Indian, and every racial blend that the migrations of men have ever developed, mingle in kaleidoscopic activity like to nothing else on earth, when the day begins in Singapore.

As it is ashore, so in commensurate degree is it in the Straits, that famous roadstead where daily one may regard the maritime life of the world and the ages. If the picture ashore is unique, so also is the picture afloat. The flags of all nations flutter in the morning breeze from the stern-posts of the luxurious liners of to-day and of the goggle-eyed junks in which the men of Confucius' day braved the typhoons of the China Sea. None but a mariner of the eastern seas can by any chance identify all the national emblems which add their rainbow colours to the rich-hued picture that is the Straits at Singapore.

What, then, is yonder five-striped flag of red, white and blue, which flies from the stern of a neat little passenger steamer? It is the new flag of the Kingdom of Siam, the only absolute monarchy on earth; and it has recently replaced the famous insignia of the white elephant. Ah, yes. But what, in the name of all we thought we had learned at school, is that curious, many-coloured banner astern that other dapper little vessel? That is the flag of the Protectorate of Sarawak, the land of the famous British Rajah, His Highness Charles Vyner Brooke, and that is one of the little fleet of the Sarawak Steamship Company which will take you to little-known ports where primitive people dwell beside unfamiliar seas.

If the wanderlust is wont to trip you at little provocation, be well advised and keep away from Singapore, where there is more provocation than anywhere else on earth. For Singapore is the "letting-forth point" for such places as you never heard of and would not believe existed until you saw them. A day here and you will realise that the world has its lovely and its romance yet, in spite of modernity penetrating into additional places each year. Yonder, for example, are half a dozen of the clean little white tankers of the Straits Steamship Company. Any one of them will bear you to such remote, hidden, unheard-of ports as no world cruise has ever made or ever will make. All about us, here in the roads, are the buff-funnel ships of the Dutch, K.P.M.—Koninklijke Paketvaart Maatschappij—aboard which you may search out such places as Ambon and Ternate, and the "Spice Isles," Samarinda and Sandakan, in Borneo, penetrate 200 miles up a Borneo river, or find a life that has not altered since the Stone Age on the little-known coast of north-eastern New Guinea.

Close alongside is one of the "lan Steam Navigation Company's passenger steamers, which touches at Singapore, founded by Chinese traders centuries ago, at Nakayamatar, in southern Siam, and at the beautiful port of Hualin, its picturesque way to Bangkok.

The Straits at Singapore! Here in the junk anchorage, off the eastern end of the Bund, with its hotels and clubs and luxurious residences, are hundreds of the curious craft of a past age, more of them and in greater variety even than in Hong Kong or Shanghai. Searchingly their striding, singularly lifelike eyes are at you. For as the Chinese pertinently puts it: "No have eye, how can see? No can see, how can savvy? No can savvy, how can do?"

And sure enough, they seem to pick their ways with uncanny adroitness through the crowded roadstead by day and to glide eerily by night in and out of the great harbour confidently as some night bird winging its way above the forest.

Yet modernity has touched them, too, in the form of artificial power, especially among the sampan type. It appears that a merchant of Singapore recently imported a cargo of outboard motors which turned out to be an unsuccessful venture. They went at a tithe of their value to a canny Chinese who disposed of them to his countrymen. And now half the harbour sampans dash weirdly about the Straits while their owners rest at last from the laborious sculling of centuries.

At the other end of the roadstead, behind the breakwater, and around yonder point alongside the great piers, lie the ships of to-day, the great P. & O. liners, the Messageries Maritimes, the North German Lloyd and the Hamburg-American, the Chargeurs Reunis, the Danish East Asiatic Company, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, the Royal Netherlands Lloyd, the familiar Blue Funnel liners, the British India, Ellerman & Bucknall, and a score of others; together with ships plying to Australian cities through the Torres Straits, or to the exotic ports of the north and west coast; attractive tropically fitted steamers, presently to set forth for Javanese and Sumatran harbours, and cargo ships of every type and size from every port on earth.

It is a marine picture unrivalled, as the blend of the life of all the world and every age in the seething, steamy streets of Singapore is a picture of human activity unparalleled. Everything that is of the sea is represented here in the Straits, as everything that is of the land is represented there in the streets. And that name of singing euphony ever recalls it all to him who has seen it, ever fires the fancy of him who has not.

"We—you and I and all of us—have thrilled to the very word ever since we saw it on the map of our school days. With all sorts of flaming imagery we have invested this most picturesque of all the ports of all the seas. And those of us who have at length realised our dreams of looking upon, of participating in, that stupendous spectacle known as "The East" on its stage 5,000 miles square, have found that even the farthest flights of fancy have not led us astray as to the many-hued allure of Singapore and the Straits—M. T. G. in Christian Science Monitor.

A travelling cashier of the London and North Eastern Railway was found unconscious in a train at Maryland Point station. His cash-boxes, containing $6,000, had been rifled.

A new portrait of himself by Sir Joshua Reynolds, probably painted in 1749, has been discovered by Sir Charles Holmes. It shows the artist as a young man.

"NOT MENTALLY RESPONSIBLE."

YOUNG BRITON MAKES WRONG BEGINNING.

JUDGE'S LENIENCY.

Selangor, May 21. Charles Brown, a young assistant formerly employed by John Little and Co., was charged at the Selangor Assizes with the theft of jewellery and cash valued at $1,830 from that firm. Accused pleaded not guilty and conducted his own defence.

The Deputy Public Prosecutor, Mr. R. C. Cussen, said that on Monday, March 3, accused lost $45 or $50 at the Selangor races. He returned to his boarding house, where a fellow employee named Gaskin also lived, at about six o'clock. When Mr. Gaskin returned from a bath he found that his keys had disappeared from his dressing table. There were two bunches of keys, one of which bore the keys of the outer door of the store and the other the keys of the branch of which Mr. Gaskin had charge.

Stole From Safe. Accused went to the shop and entered. He emerged fifteen or twenty minutes later. He telephoned for a hired car, but left in a riksha before it arrived. Later in the evening he summoned the car to the Coliseum cafe. While in the shop accused opened a safe with Mr. Gaskin's keys and removed jewellery and cash to the value already stated. Accused was seen on the station platform that evening and was arrested a day or so later at the Raffles Hotel, Singapore, when all the jewellery was recovered, but some of the money had gone.

After corroborative evidence had been called for the prosecution, Brown called several witnesses. Mr. A. E. Bond, director in charge of John Little and Co., Kuala Lumpur, said, in reply to Brown, that he (Brown) had borne a quite satisfactory character up to the time of this offence. It was true that about four months after he arrived accused had a serious motor-cycle accident which necessitated his spending ten days in hospital. Accused came to the firm with very good references.

Brown: Is it true that I have managed to repay everything that was missing? Mr. Bond replied that only $60 of the cash remained to be accounted for and the arrangements made by accused did not quite cover that. Accused had a certain amount of money due to him in the provident fund.

In reply to Mr. Cussen, Mr. Bond said that accused worked for five months after his accident and did not seem abnormal in any way. Mr. S. M. Adams, a missionary, gave evidence that he came out with Brown on the same ship and had seen him frequently since. He had always known Brown to be of good character and he was surprised and shocked when he read of this affair.

Accused next handed in three references as to character, which his Lordship examined.

Medical Evidence. Dr. T. E. Wakefield, in charge of the European Hospital, was called at accused's request. He said that accused spent eleven days in hospital with concussion. The Chief Surgeon noted that he "wandered" at times, but that was quite usual in such cases. Brown: Are there any after-effects after a concussion accident?

Dr. Wakefield: Quite frequently. His Lordship: This offence was committed early in March. Is it likely that mental effects of the concussion might last as long as five months?

Dr. Wakefield: It is possible that the mental effects of concussion might last as long as five months. Accused asked an involved question to the effect that if Dr. Wakefield knew that six months before he left Britain he had a nervous breakdown necessitating a long stay in hospital, would Dr. Wakefield be surprised to learn that after the motor-cycling accident he found himself doing things of which he later had no recollection.

Dr. Wakefield was understood to reply that he had had no experience of such a combination of circumstances. Questioned by Mr. Cussen, Dr. Wakefield said that when accused was discharged from hospital the Chief Surgeon noted that he was quite well. Eleven days was a rather short period to spend in hospital with concussion.

His Lordship then asked accused whether he had anything to say before sentence was passed.

Brandy Affected Him.

Accused said he came out to Malaya with very good references and with the intention of making a career for himself in this country. Four months after his arrival he met with a very serious motor-cycling accident, which greatly affected his nervous system. Since that time he had suffered from nightmares and delusions and at times had done things of which he had no recollection afterwards. The week previous to the theft he was very busy in his department and two days before it he worked from 8.30 a.m. to 7 p.m. with no respite owing to excess of business. Over the week-end he felt very unwell and on Monday he left at one p.m., it being a half holiday, intending to lie down before attending the races and afterwards to return to the godown to complete some work. He returned to the godown as he intended and after finishing his work he helped himself to a glass of brandy. "I think that must have affected me," said accused, "as I am not used to strong drink and am practically a teetotaler. I cannot really remember what happened after that until I found myself in the train. When I found that I had some jewellery and money I realised that I must have done something wrong and was very disturbed. When I got to Singapore I was almost immediately arrested before I had time to get in touch with my firm."

Proceeding, accused said he was only 21 years of age and this was the first time that he had been in a court. He had lost his position and he asked for leniency as a first offender. He asked to be sent to Britain to make a fresh start as soon as possible. He had been in prison nearly three months already. Finally he said he would like to express his regret to everybody concerned for the trouble they had been caused and said he was very sorry for what had occurred.

Gael Worse For Europeans.

"I treat you as leniently as I can," said his Lordship in passing sentence, "because we realise that the punishment of imprisonment is very much worse for the European in this country than it is for the native. Owing to the climate and other things it is much more unpleasant and therefore we give European who are convicted more lenient sentences as a rule. With regard to the offence itself, there is no getting away from the fact that it is a breach of trust, and therefore much more serious than an ordinary larceny. I take into account your age, and I take into account the more important fact that you have already spent three months in prison awaiting trial, and the sentence I impose is therefore three months less than it would have been had you not been in prison.

"But I cannot pass over such a serious matter. It is not a case to be dealt with under the law relating to first offenders. It is not a case of that kind at all. It is quite true that John Little and Co., have lost nothing by this lapse, but it is equally true that you cannot prove that you were not mentally responsible at the time. It would be a very difficult thing to do. But I realise that it may be that you were not quite normal, and I take all these things into account, but I cannot pass upon you a less sentence than nine months' imprisonment."

A GIFTED JOURNALIST.

With the sudden death at his home in Paris of Mr. George Jeffreys Adam, there has passed away one of the outstanding figures in the British-speaking literary and journalistic world of the French capital. For, although only 46 years of age, Adam had already made his mark not only as a journalist, but also as the author of a number of successful books, the latest of which was a brilliant study of Clemenceau. He was a brilliant conversationalist, a gifted writer and journalist, popular with his fellows, and possessed of a keen insight into French and international politics, and his death will come as a shock to his large circle of friends in Paris and elsewhere.

Keep Children Well In The Hot Weather.

Now that the hot season is at hand wise mothers will pay especial heed to the food their children eat, for uncooked vegetables, unripe or over-ripe fruits, and tainted milk, are among the chief causes of diarrhoea, dysentery, worms, colic and other stomach and bowel troubles at this time of year.

Yet however careful the mother may be, she cannot always be on the watch, so as an additional precaution she should keep a vial of Baby's Own Tablets handy in the house, for these pleasant little Tablets, administered in time, quickly cleanse the child's system of any harmful substances that may have been eaten, and in this way have saved many little lives.

Especially devised as a corrective of disturbances in the digestive tract of the very young, Baby's Own Tablets are an absolutely safe and reliable specific for infantile indigestion, constipation, colic, they check dysentery, cool fever, ease cramp and colds, expel worms, give immediate relief from the pains of teething. Of chemists everywhere at 60 cents per vial.

Hollywood Studio Sets Weary Richman.

"PUTTIN' ON THE RITZ."

"Hollywood parties," said Harry Richman, "are exhausting." But he didn't mean the kind one may find in Boulevard apartments and Beverly Hills mansions, but the synthetic variety encountered on studio sets.

They staged a particularly raucous one at the United Artists studios for scenes in "Puttin' on the Ritz." Richman's first starring picture, which comes to the Queen's Theatre on Sunday. The famous Broadway singer and night club favourite was required to turn up bright and early in the morning, then stop into scenes where he was supposed to be raising the roof, so to speak, in a particularly gay and festive celebration.

While he doesn't contend that this is an experience entirely unknown to him, he does insist that it is a bit trying, after a good night's sleep to report at work at 9 o'clock of a bright sunny morning and immediately assume a pose of rather alcoholic hilarity.

Realists, of course, might advance a rather drastic method for overcoming those difficulties, but that, too, has its disadvantages, Richman points out.

"Puttin' on the Ritz" features a cast of many prominent players, Aileen Pringle, Lillian Tashman,

Empire Film Institute.

The first of a series of Sunday afternoon performances, arranged by the British Empire Film Institute, to demonstrate the progress of picture producing in Britain, drew a large and interested audience on April 27 to the Alhambra, London.

With five items on the programme, all of British origin and each excellent in its own way, pride of place must be given to "Juno and the Paycock." This faithful talking-picture version of Sean O'Casey's story of modern Ireland does honour to all concerned in its production.

A short film, "The Jolly Farmers," also made in the Elstree studios of British International Pictures, includes some typical scenes of rural life in Britain. Two topical films and "The Merlin," one of the "Secrets of Nature" series, completed a programme which must have left on the mind of every one in the theatre the impression that British talking films are really on the high road to success.

Among those present were: The secretary of State for War and Mrs. Shaw, the President of the Board of Trade and Mrs. Graham, Sir James Connolly, Agent-General for Malta, and Lady Connolly, the High Commissioner for New Zealand and Mrs. Welford, and the Agents-General for New South Wales, Ontario, Nova Scotia, and Queensland.

NAPOLEON UP TO DATE.

WALTER HASENCLEVER'S SATIRE.

Berlin, April 24.

The Stresemann Theatre has produced Walter Hasenclever's new play, "Napoleon Intervenes."

Napoleon is a figure in a wax-work show, which includes contemporaries as well as extinguished stars of world history. His neighbour in the French section is Landru! When, wearied of inactivity, he descends from his pedestal to play a part in the life of to-day, he borrows Mussolini's trousers and Stresemann's hat. The juxtaposition with Landru is symbolic. The playwright has in mind the similarity between a man who sacrificed all the women he met to his own particular whim, and the man who sacrificed all the men he came across—his soldiers—for his one particular woman.

For, though the garments of Mussolini and Stresemann show that Napoleon up-to-date resolves to reenact a political role, the part that Josephine played in his life is Hasenclever's main thesis. He is furious when he learns from Landru of the infidelity he always suspected. He attends a conference of the League of Nations, where he finds that the United States of Europe are materialising in the brains of an American millionaire instead of on the battlefield; he acts in a film studio—the Josephine of to-day is

"THE PATRIOT."

Emil Jannings and Lewis Stone.

Lewis Stone, the man who made those marvellous cameos of satire and finesse: "The Wedding Circle" and "Helen of Troy" is cast in what he himself believes the best role of his film career in Paramount's "The Patriot," which is now being screened to big houses at the Majestic Theatre, Kowloon, for a limited engagement.

The role is that of Count Fahlen, Minister of War, and the only man in whom Tsar Paul I. of Russia placed any trust.

"The Patriot" has Emil Jannings in the starring role, with Mr. Stone cast in a role nearly equal in importance. It is he who wins the sympathy of the audience, as the patriot; also, as the man who enjoys the trust of his leader, he figures in one of the most interesting incidents in the history of Imperial Russia.

This epic of the screen was adapted from the stage play of the same name by Alfred Neumann, celebrated European playwright. Taken from an actual occurrence in the turbulent history of Russia, it forms one of the most amazing dramas ever put to the stage or screen.

The Mad Emperor.

Paul I. was known as the Mad Emperor. He had the heart of a child and a brain of a tiger. He ruled ruthlessly and without mercy. Pahlen was the only man who could handle his superior. He saw what was happening to his country, and knew the only way to keep his country from destruction. He resolved upon a desperate plan and saw it to a successful conclusion. Achieving this, he thrust himself into oblivion. A most inspiring character. Stone has handled it in a perfect manner.

Also included in the cast of this "wonder picture" is Florence Vidor, herself a star, and Neil Hamilton, popular leading man, who has the role of the Tsar's son. It was directed by Ernst Lubitsch and adapted to the screen by Hans Kraly.

a film star—and goes to a gambling club. He returns completely disillusioned to his pedestal and says some very biting things about the world of to-day as he tells a sympathetic Landru all about it.

"Cuddles" and "Georgie," two of the best known child stars Gus Edwards ever had in his vaudeville acts, are reunited in "Love, Live and Laugh," Fox Movietone all-talking drama. "Georgie" who is George Jessel, is starred. "Cuddles," now known as Lila Lee, is his leading woman. "Love, Live and Laugh" will be seen and heard soon at the Carlton Theatre screen.

Helen Kane, the little girl with the baby voice, is scoring new triumphs as a screen player for her work in Paramount's "Sweetie," and in her new picture, "Pointed Heels."

Mary Carr, who has "mothered" almost every star in Hollywood, is playing a featured role in Radio Pictures' "Second Wife," with Lila Lee and Conrad Nagel.

John D. is in the talkies, Mr. Rockefeller made a speech for the films to help celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of standard oil.

BRITISH LEGION.

Not "Self-Glorifying" Institution.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The ninth annual meeting of the Hong Kong branch of the British Legion was held yesterday in the Board room of Messrs. Jardine Matheson & Co., Mr. F. W. James being in the chair.

The Chairman, pointed out that the Legion was not a "self-glorifying" organisation, but it existed for the benefit of ex-Service men and women and to help the Services in general.

As regards the annual report, gross receipts on Poppy Day were more by $486.27 than in 1928, but the fall in exchange resulted in less sterling being sent to the Central Fund. The gross receipt in 1928 was $16,973.09 and in 1929 $17,469.36, but the remittances for the two years were respectively $1,747.4s. 6d. and $1,492.1s. 8d., so that although we collected more in Hong Kong dollars, we remitted $255.2s. 9d. less for the year 1929.

The Chairman also returned thanks to various officials of the branch for their help during the year, and stated that the branch had 110 members resident in the Colony, although there was a number of subscriptions still unpaid.

The report and accounts were carried unanimously.

Officers Elected.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—President: Mr. F. W. James; hon. secretary and treasurer: Mr. H. Spicer; general committee: Col. L. G. Bird, Lt.-Col. G. K. Hall, Bruton, Lt.-Col. T. A. Robertson, the Rev. T. G. Waldegrave, Mrs. V. M. Bond, Mr. J. N. Owen, Mr. A. R. H. Phillips and Mr. F. C. Hall; hon. auditor: Mr. A. Ritchie.

ALLEGED MURDER.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith concluded the preliminary hearing of the case in which a Japanese named Yamada, a passenger on the s.s. Tando, from Australia, is charged with the alleged murder, at sea, of a Chinese ship's cook named Fung Sau-sham. The accused reserved his defence and was committed for trial at the next Criminal Sessions.

A statement stated to have been made by the accused to the Police, after he had been charged, was read in Court.

Accused stated that when he left Townsville he had in his possession the sum of £84, but of this he had lost £71 in gambling. He kept his money in a bag tied round his waist. On the day before the crime the cook asked him for £10 but prisoner thought he was joking. The same night he again met the cook who produced a pistol, which he pointed at prisoner and asked for £50. At the moment a passenger was seen approaching and the cook put the pistol away at the same time threatening that if the prisoner said anything about the incident something would happen to him.

Committed for Trial.

Shortly afterward prisoner went to sleep in a corner of the hatch

but some time after one o'clock, he opened his eyes and felt his hands and legs numbed while his head was heavy. He felt for his money but found it was missing. He went to the cook's cabin, taking a knife and chopper with him for his own protection. The cook was lying on his bunk awake. When the prisoner asked the cook for the return of his money, the Chinese put his hand behind him. Thinking that he was reaching for a pistol, prisoner "swung the knife," touching the electric light which then went out. "I heard the cook shouting; after that I don't remember anything," concluded the prisoner in his statement.

APPRENTICE JAILED.

Receiver of Stolen Property.
 A MYTHICAL FRIEND.

Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith, at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning, sentenced a Chinese apprentice of the Far Eastern Oxygen & Acetylene Co., Limited, to one month's hard labour for being the receiver of 100 lb. of rubbered wire, which he knew was stolen from the company at To Kwa Wan.

Accused pleaded that a friend, whom he had known for a short time, had given him the wire, but that friend he could not identify.

Speaking on behalf of the firm, Mr. Middleton said that accused had been an apprentice for three weeks, and was studying to be a welder which constituted four months' tuition by the company. They taught the man, besides electricity, the use of oxygen and acetylene power. If he concentrated on learning that it would get him an honest living after three or four months.

It was further stated by Mr. Middleton that the company bought 400 yards of this wire on May 25 and when it was measured yesterday exactly one hundred yards was missing.

Extensive powers for the regulation of prices of articles in "common use" are disclosed in the text of the bill for the setting up of the Consumers' Council. These will be exercised by the Board of Trade working in conjunction with the new body.

AMY JOHNSON TALKS TO BRITAIN.

WELCOME IN AUSTRALIA THAT WAS "MARVELLOUS"

SPEECH HEARD PLAINLY.

London, Yesterday.

A broadcast talk by Miss Amy Johnson from Brisbane was heard this evening. Sir John Goodwin, the Governor of Queensland, introduced Amy, who referred to her "absolutely marvellous" welcome in Australia. The recently opened post office telephone service between Britain and Australia was utilised to convey Amy's brief speech to London. A few phrases were lost owing to atmospheric conditions but the main portion of her speech was heard plainly. —Reuter.

'Plane Turns Somersaults.

Rugby, Yesterday.

Miss Amy Johnson escaped entirely uninjured from her crash at Brisbane to-day. It would appear that as she was about to alight she heard that she would overrun the landing ground and therefore restarted the engine, intending to ascend and approach the ground afresh. In doing so she struck a wire fence on the boundary of the ground and her machine dived into a field of standing millet, turning almost completely over and smashing the propeller and wings.

A great crowd of anxious spectators raced to her help and arrived to find Miss Johnson standing by the machine calmly combing her hair, having suffered nothing more than a shaking.

ABBAY FUNERAL.

Archbishop to Be Buried at Canterbury.

CATHEDRAL GRAVE.

Rugby, Yesterday.
 The first part of the funeral service for Archbishop, Lord Davidson, took place at Westminster Abbey this evening. The large congregation included representatives of the King and Prince of Wales.

The service was conducted by the Dean of Westminster, the Archbishops of Canterbury and York being present.

The coffin was subsequently taken by road to Canterbury Cathedral, where the interment in the Cloister Garth will take place to-morrow. —British Wireless Service.

KING BETTER.

ELIZABETH GOES AS WELL.

Rugby, Yesterday.
 It is stated at Buckingham Palace that the King's rheumatic trouble is clearing away satisfactorily.

The Queen on her visit to-day to the Royal Military Tournament was accompanied by the Duke of Gloucester, Prince George, and little Princess Elizabeth. —British Wireless Service.

Earlier News.
 Brisbane, Yesterday.
 Miss Amy Johnson met with a mishap when landing across the wind at Eagle Farm aerodrome, at Brisbane. The machine hit a fence and turned turtle, but Miss Johnson was thrown clear and not hurt—only shaken. The propeller and wings were badly damaged.

The accident did not interfere with the arrangements for her reception. After preliminary greetings she drove in a procession to the city. —Reuter.
